

My name is Tiffany Harrison and I am currently enrolled in the midwifery program at Mount Royal University. Prior to pursuing my life's dream of becoming a midwife, I was blessed with being able to stay home with my two children until they entered school. It was then that I decided to go back to school to become a labor and delivery nurse as I love supporting women during a pivotal point in their lives. I was on that journey when I learned that MRU was starting a Midwifery Educational Program, for which I applied and was accepted to my delight. It is my belief that every woman deserves a gentle, safe birth, one in which she is supported as she makes informed choices for herself and her baby. I look forward to working with women and their families during their pregnancy and births, and participating in care of their babies as I gain essential experience on the path to becoming a midwife. I am humbled and carry a deep gratitude for all the women who allow me to be a part of their experiences.
